

FUND STRATEGY

The Delafield Fund will seek to achieve its objectives by investing primarily in the equity securities (i.e., common stocks, securities convertible into common stocks or rights or warrants to subscribe for or purchase common stocks) of domestic companies. Specifically, the Fund will primarily invest in equity securities which the portfolio managers believe to be undervalued or to represent special situations. An example of a special situation is a company undergoing change that might cause its market value to grow at a rate faster than the market generally.

Calendar Year Returns

QUARTERLY UPDATE

- U.S. equity markets experienced choppiness during 2Q 2017 but managed to rise above the turbulence as a whole on the strength of returns in June. Stocks posted modest increases in April on favorable first quarter earnings reports, as well as optimism stemming from the White House. Equities then gave back all of those gains in May, as consumer spending and employment data were unexpectedly sluggish, and the surprise firing of FBI Director James Comey and the ensuing controversy spooked investors. In June, investors seemingly refocused on encouraging domestic economic data and took the Fed's increase in the federal funds rate target as a bullish indication, driving indices back into the black for the quarter.
- The Fund generated a net return of 1.58% in 2Q 2017, just behind the Russell 2000 Index gain of 2.46%, and S&P 500 Index return of 3.09%. Our Materials sector holdings experienced a particularly strong quarter, and contributed about 100 basis points to our relative performance. In contrast, after several very strong quarters, our investments in the Information Technology sector were challenged and the Consumer Discretionary space again detracted from both our absolute and relative metrics. On a relative basis, our lack of exposure to the Health Care sector was also a negative, as it was among the top performing market sectors during the quarter.
- Market valuations remain inflated to us, and as such, we continued to hold sizeable cash reserves which negatively impacted our relative performance by about 60 basis points. We expect to remain conservative and continue to hold larger than normal cash reserves in order to take advantage of any market weakness, should it occur.
- Our top contributing stocks during the quarter included US Concrete Inc., Harsco Corporation, G-III Apparel Group, Ltd. And PolyOne Corporation. In contrast, our largest detractors were Tegna Inc., Ascena Retail Group Inc., and Diebold Nixdorf. We initiated several positions during the quarter, including among others, Hanesbrands Inc., Schnitzer Steel Industries Inc., and Tesco Corp. Our largest exits during the quarter included Ralph Lauren Corporation and Teradyne Inc.

DISCLOSURES

Mutual Fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results. The Fund invests in smaller companies, which involve additional or special risks such as small companies rely on limited product lines, financial resources and business activities that may make them more susceptible than larger companies to setbacks or downturns; and small cap stocks are less liquid and more thinly traded which make them more volatile than stocks of larger companies.
